ECAMGAV Party, Party, Party...by Lori Kempen

The annual Eau Claire Area Master Gardener Association Volunteer's (ECAMGAV) annual Holiday Party was held on Monday, December 18th at the UW-Extension Office in Altoona. About thirty people gathered for the event where a festive array of delicious foods was served by our members, who cook and bake as well as they garden!

Horticulture Educator, Erin LaFaive, thanked all Master Gardener (MG) volunteers for their many hours of service throughout the year. She then presented certificates to the 2017 Photo contest winners. First place went to Carol Losey, Second place went to Kathy Radloff and the Third place winner was Jo-Ann Clark. Paula Bonnin and Ellen Terwilliger received Honorable Mention awards for their photo entries also. The framed winning pictures will be on display in the meeting room for the next year. (Remember to snap those garden photos throughout the coming year for the 2018 contest).

Door prizes were awarded to several lucky recipients. The rest of the evening was spent enjoying good conversation, food and friendship with our fellow garden friends.

This year, instead of a gift exchange, attendees were asked to bring non-perishable items for the food pantry. What a great response we had! Over 95 pounds of food and some cash was donated. This was taken to the St. Francis Food Pantry the next day. (A copy of their response is included in this newsletter on page 7.) Thank you to everyone who donated to this worthy cause in our community.

As well as being good cooks and bakers, gardeners are generous and caring. Happy New Year to everyone! Let's make 2018 the best year ever for the ECAMGVA!!!!

A really laid-back group listens as Erin LaFaive updates them on 2017 volunteer hours, and gives out the awards for the ECAMGA Photo Contest.

ECAMGAV
Meeting by Nina Logan

On January 15, 2018, Erik Keisler, Executive Director at Beaver Creek Reserve will update the Eau Claire Area Master Gardener Association Volunteers (ECAMGAVs) about what is new and happening at Beaver Creek Reserve.

If you haven't been there lately (located at S1 County Road K, Fall Creek, Wisconsin), a lot of changes have taken place. Have you seen the new nature center for children yet? Kids love it.

New trails are being built, a new parking lot is under way and there is a great play area along one of the trails where the children can make music on instruments made from materials found in nature.

All this plus many nature workshops, a native plant sale, and lots more for families.

In addition, Beaver Creek offers all kinds of volunteer opportunities for our members to earn volunteer hours.

Come join us on Monday evening, January 15 at 6:30 p.m. to hear more from Erik about this great place. The event will be held at the Eau Claire County UW-Extension office located at 227 First St. West, Altoona.

Snacks and door prizes will be offered. Bring a friend! In fact, bring two or three friends. The public is welcome. See you there!

2018 Winter Garden Seminar update.

Great progress has been made on preparations for our February 3, 2018 Ready, Set, Go, Winter Garden seminar. There is a wide selection of speakers lined up for this year's event.

This year's keynote speaker will be Heather Holm. Heather is a nationally sought-after speaker and spends much of her time passionately educating audiences about the fascinating world of native bees and the native plants that support them. Her first book, Pollinators of Native Plants, published in 2014, helped establish her as a knowledgeable resource on the subject of the interactions between native bees and native plants.

Other presentations will include speakers on backyard beekeeping, establishing new community gardens, energy conservation, new plants for 2018 and many more interesting topics.

There will also be a tea workshop where one can select and blend one's own selection of teas and take home your own brew. The cost of this workshop is an added $15 to the $35 registration fee for the daylong event. Any walk-in guests will pay $40 at the door so be sure to register early. The brochure is being printed now and will be available at the Extension office soon.

Call the Extension office for more info (715-839-4712) or to register for the event.

The male Northern Cardinal's eye catching red coloring is welcome in any garden. Even the brown females sport a sharp crest and warm red accents. Cardinals don't migrate and they don't molt so they're still breathtaking in winter's snowy backyards. In summer, their sweet whistles are one of the first sounds of the morning.

In the dead of winter, as the wind blows and the thermometer drops below zero, it is oh-so pleasant to remember last summer's garden scenes like the one above. The true wonder of Wisconsin's four seasons is that gardeners have some time to rest and contemplate. I often think that if I lived in the south where I could garden all year around that I would probably kill myself gardening – just plain wear out so much faster. BUT, in Wisconsin we can curl up on a cold winter's day in January with a good gardening book or with one of the seed catalogs that are already arriving and DREAM of "next year in the garden"!

Bits and Pieces

EYE CANDY

"I have never had so many good ideas day after day as when I worked in the garden."
-John Erskine

The Photo to the right was taken by Paula Bonnin. It is of an osteospermum that grew in her garden this summer. Otherwise known as an African Daisy, this plant is considered an annual in our climate (it is actually a zone 9 perennial), and loves the sun although some varieties prefer a sun and shade mix. She grows various colors and styles of these in garden boxes over the spring and summer months and says that they are great for cutting and bring some beautiful color into the house!

The picture is of a Dusty Miller that brightens the garden walkway at her home outside of Fall Creek, Wisconsin this past August.

The picture to the right was taken by Rhonda Cooke, another of our ECAMGAV gardener/photographers, and is entitled, "Brown Eyed Susans at the Farm."

Seed Catalogue Time...

Long before “seed time” gets here comes the season when we are deluged by the seed catalogs. While some seed companies and nurseries no longer send out paper seed catalogs they are all available on line for those who are interested in saving some trees.

In any case, whether you treasure curling up on a cold day with a paper catalog or prefer to sit at your computer and browse, below is a listing of sites that give you their list of “The Best Seed Catalogs”. You may want to take a look and enable yourself to shop only what are considered the best.

1. The Garden Glove: <https://www.thegardenglove.com/top-garden-seed-catalogs/>, Vegetable Gardening With Lorraine: <http://www.vegetable-gardening-with-lorraine.com/seed-catalogs.html>.

3. The Old Farmer’s Almanac: <https://www.almanac.com/content/garden-seed-catalogs-mail>.

4. Garden Products Review: <https://gardeningproductsreview.com/five-best-gardening-catalogs/>.

While many of these lists contain duplications that is simply a confirmation of their validity as high-ranking sources for seeds and plants. Also, some of these lists cater more to vegetable growing while others are more diverse or are aimed at flower gardening.

In any case, check out the lists and then go compile your Own list of “best” seed and nursery catalogs. Happy dreaming and planning for your 2018 garden season!

"There are two seasonal diversions that can ease the bite of any winter. One is the January thaw. The other is the seed catalogues."
